

Screen saver »

Sculptor Erwin Hauer was a master of the architectural screen. His fragile geometric designs, built from concrete, often formed the only barriers between architecture and the outside world, a continuation of a centuries-old tradition that vanished as the everyday artefacts of the post-war period were ruthlessly 'modernised'.

Continua: Architectural Screens and Walls,
Erwin Hauer (Princeton Press, $40)

WALLPAPER October 2004

